Cover it up?? . . . or Resolve the problem?

For Linda Edwards, the TensCam is the difference between covering up a problem and resolving it.

"My husband and I purchased a TensCam in 2008, says Linda. "At that time I was having regular trouble with my knee, but several treatments with the TensCam took care of the problem and it has never returned. We have used the TensCam for a variety of pains, sprains and other issues over the last four years."

Recently, Linda spent an afternoon driving an old truck while the family cleaned up around the property. With her foot on the stiff clutch most of the time, she put a lot of stress on the whole left side of her body. The next morning the pain was so intense she had to visit the family doctor who gave her a cortisone shot.

"The cortisone helped a bit -- just enough that I kept pushing myself, thinking it was getting better," recalls Linda, "but then it hit with a vengeance." Linda woke one morning in so much pain she could not get out of bed. This time, her doctor prescribed strong pain medication. Linda knew medicine would not solve the problem. She intuitively got out the TensCam.

"The pain was non-stop for nearly two weeks and I was completely bedridden," says Linda. "I had to take the pain medication (though I didn't like it) just to survive. At the same time, I intensified my use of the TensCam. I treated my lower left side from my back to my hip, ankle and the top of my foot at least twice a day. After a while, I began to feel relief with each treatment."

Today, Linda is nearly pain free. She is convinced (even more than before) that the TensCam is a revolutionary gift to mankind.

"The TensCam gave me the ability to take personal responsibility for my healing. I'm really grateful for that."
