Seasonal Allergies-- a thing of the past!

Allergies are on the rise. According to EPA statistics, airborne allergens now impact half of all Americans. Annual treatment costs exceed 21 billion dollars. Food allergies are not far behind with annual costs that top 500 million. While allergies, alone, are costly, an increasing number of doctors believe allergic factors are involved in most illnesses. The solution may be as simple as energetic balance.

In 2007, after attending a NAET (Nambudripad's Allergy Elimination Technology) training workshop for Veterinarians, Dean Bader, DVM, decided to explore the use of CAMS devices for treatment of allergies. Based on NAET protocols that stimulate acupuncture meridians and rebalance the brain, Dr. Bader treated a dog with intractable itching. Where other treatments had failed, the CAMS Personal Tuner provided immediate and ongoing relief. Encouraged, Dr. Bader treated other patients with a variety of allergies--with similar results. Over the last several years, Dr. Bader has developed a protocol that provides consistent relief of many allergy symptoms, especially symptoms caused by airborne allergens.

- 2-3 minute CAMS treatment of the brain stem
- 3 slow passes of the CAMS unit down the spinal column
- 1 minute treatment on each side of the head at the temple
- 20-30 second treatments of both ears

Often the above treatment works immediately. Sometimes multiple treatments are necessary to bring lasting relief.

According to Devi Nambudripad, author of Say Good-Bye to Illness and developer of the NAET technique, the allergic response is an imbalance between the electromagnetic energy of a person and the substance causing the imbalance.

Because the CAMS technology re-establishes a coherent electromagnetic energy field, its role in the treatment of allergies could ultimately be significant.

NOTE: Dr. Bader also uses CAMS treatments prior to laser therapy and prior to SCENAR therapy. He has found that these treatments are more effective when preceded by the balancing effects of CAMS technology.

Ask Dr. Crosby

Q: Is there any evidence this allergy protocol may work on humans?

A: We have seen remarkable results in a limited number of cases with seasonal inhalant allergies. Sometimes symptoms clear immediately. We believe food allergies could also respond but our experience is limited. We encourage you to share your findings for the benefit of others.
